FEDERAL LEGISLATION

On Dec. 13, the House and Senate announced they had ironed out the differences between their versions of the Tax Reform bill [HR.1]. Only the House bill included a provision allowing expectant parents to open a '529 College Savings Plan' for their preborn child. (First Tax Code recognition of the Preborn!) Odds are low the Bill retained this 'College' plan, but the full text won't be known until a day after this Life News issue is finalized. NOTE: "You can include in medical expenses the amount you pay for a legal abortion." - IRS Publication 502(2017), p.5

The HR.3354 Spending bill includes the Conscience Protection Act and several other pro-life provisions. It awaits action, as the federal govt. seeks to fund itself.

In 2016, the Supreme Court sent the 'Little Sisters' case back to the Appeals Courts, telling them all to 'work things out'. In Oct. 2017, HHS expanded the religious & moral exemptions for its abortifacient/sterilization/contraceptive mandate. Now, California & Pennsylvania, joined by Delaware, Maryland, NY and Virginia, have filed suit against the (conscience protecting) exemptions. Alex Azar, HHS secretary nominee, said in hearings the agency must take conscience into policy considerations.

Flush with its 'victory' in forcing HHS to facilitate an abortion for an undocumented minor (see LN, 12-2017, p3), the ACLU now wants HHS to provide abortions for 43 additional minors in similar circumstances. Eleven States have joined the federal government in urging SCOTUS to vacate the original ruling which allowed the teen her abortion.

At recent G7 and G20 meetings, the US tried to apply existing UN agreements to the term "sexual & reproductive health," to make clear that abortion was not included. The final documents simply omitted the term.

We are still awaiting Senate action on S.1922/HR.36, the Pain-Capable /20 week abortion ban.

More Pro-life bills awaiting House or Senate action:

HR.147 Prenatal Nondiscrimination Act (PRENDA)

H.J.RES.33/S.J.RES.6 Constitutional "Equal Rights Amendment" (The Old 1972 Equal Rights Amendment, brought back again)

HR.4082/S.1985 Protect Access to Birth Control Act (Nullifies expanded Conscience protection in HHS Mandate)

HR.771 "EACH Woman Act" (pro-abortion funding)

HR.2797/S.1334 Patient Choice and Quality Care Act of 2017 (End-of-Life advanced care directives. Many drawbacks).

ACTION ITEM - Participate in the March for Life in DC on January 19th, or support & pray for those who go. If you go to Washington, you can be a Lobbyist for a day.

NEW YORK STATE LEGISLATION

Once the new legislative session opens in Albany in January, Compassion & Choices (formerly the Hemlock Society) will again be pushing for NY to join Oregon, Washington, Vermont, California and Colorado in legalizing doctor prescribed suicide. Please contact your NYS Senator and Assemblyperson and ask them to oppose the Medical Aid in Dying Act. Euthanasia and assisted suicide involve someone facilitating the death of another. This is dangerous and can lead to abuse and exploitation of those who are most in need of our care and protection.

HEALTH & SCIENCE

FETAL DEVELOPMENT SCIENCE

Paul Stark, a member of Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life, wrote an opinion piece at LifeNews.com (10/8/15) and stated, “Before deciding how we ought to treat the unborn – a moral question – we must first be clear about what the unborn is. This is a scientific question, and it is answered with clarity by the science of human embryology.” Stark wrote that the facts of reproduction are clear. At fertilization, the sperm and egg cease to exist. ‘Fertilized egg’ is an inaccurate term. A zygote – a single cell with 46 chromosomes (23 from each parent) is what exists. This is the point of conception – the beginning of a new human organism. Zygote, embryo and fetus refer to the developmental stages of a human being.

Stark continued by pointing out the “four features of the unborn (i.e., the human zygote, embryo or fetus) [which] are relevant to his/her status as a human being. First, the unborn is living. She meets all the biological criteria for life: metabolism, cellular reproduction and reaction to stimuli. Moreover, she is clearly growing, and dead things (of course) don’t grow. Second, the unborn is human. She possesses a human genetic signature that proves this beyond any doubt... Living things do not become something different as they grow and mature; rather, they develop the way that they do precisely because of the kind of being that they are. Third, the unborn is genetically and functionally distinct from (though dependent on and resting inside of) the pregnant woman. Her growth and maturation are internally directed, and her DNA is unique and different from that of any other cell in the woman’s body. She develops her own arms, legs, brain, central nervous system, etc. To say that a fetus is part of the pregnant woman’s body is to say that the woman has four arms and four legs.... Fourth, the unborn is a whole or complete (though immature) organism. That is, she is not a mere part of another living thing, but is her own organism – an entity whose parts work together in a self-integrated fashion to bring the whole to maturity. Her genetic information is fully present at conception, determining to a large extent her physical characteristics (including sex, eye color, skin color, bone structure, etc.); she needs only a suitable environment and nutrition to develop herself through the different stages of human life. Thus, the unborn is a distinct, living and whole human organism – a full-fledged member of the species Homo sapiens, like you and me, only at a much earlier stage in her development. She is a human being.”

Leading scientists and embryology textbooks confirm this fact. Stark acknowledged that the texts and individuals could be cited “ad nauseam”. One of the most widely used embryology texts, The Developing Human: Clinically Oriented Embryology by Keith L. Moore and T.V.N. Persaud, states, “Human development begins at fertilization when a male gamete or sperm (spermatozoon) unites with a female gamete or oocyte (ovum) to form a single cell – a zygote. This highly specialized, totipotent cell marked the beginning of each of us as a unique individual.” Dr. Micheline Matthews-Roth of Harvard Medical School stated, “It is scientifically correct to say that an individual human life begins at conception, when egg and sperm join to form the zygote, and this developing human is always a member of our species in all stages of its life.” After hearing expert testimony, the official report of a 1981 US Senate judiciary subcommittee stated, “Physicians, biologists, and other scientists agree that conception marks the beginning of the life of a human being – a being that is alive and is a member of the human species. There is overwhelming agreement on this point in countless medical, biological, and scientific writings...no witness...raised any evidence to refute the biological fact that from the moment of conception there exists a distinct individual being who is alive and is of the human species.”

Stark stated that the claim “no one knows when life begins” is repeated so often that it must be addressed. He acknowledges that there is “debate about when a human being becomes (if she isn’t by nature) valuable and deserving of full moral respect.” However, “the strictly biological matter is clear... The life of a human being... begins at conception.” The argument that sperm and egg are also human because they have the potential to become a child is “bad biology. The sperm and egg are simply parts of larger organisms. When they unite they cease to be and something new comes into existence: the zygote, a whole organism with the active capacity to develop into a mature member of its species, given only a suitable environment and nutrition. Each of us was once a zygote, but none of us was ever a sperm or egg.”

There are those who compare the zygote or embryo to other somatic cells which are human, living and possess a full genetic code. But these cells are not actual human beings. There is a critical difference between body cells such as skin cells and a zygote or embryo. The zygote or embryo “is a distinct and complete individual whose parts work together in a coordinated fashion to develop the whole to maturity.” Skin cells and other somatic cells “function as mere parts of a larger organism.” Another argument that is made is that since very early embryos can split into two distinct embryos (twinning) then the early embryo is not a unitary individual. Stark noted that if a flatworm is cut in half, or an organism is cloned, “a single organism gives rise to two distinct organisms. In both cases the original entity is a unitary, self-integrating, whole individual. The scientific evidence shows that the embryo likewise functions as its own organism, from the zygote stage forward, regardless of whether twinning occurs.” There are also those who claim that human life doesn’t begin until the unborn develops a brain. Stark argued, “brain death is accepted as a criterion only because it signals the end of the body’s ability to function as an integrated organism, for which the brain, in older humans, is essential. After brain death there is no longer a unitary organism. By contrast, the embryo is a unitary organism from conception, actively developing to the next stage of human life. The brain, at this earliest stage, is not yet necessary for her to function as such.”

Stark concluded, “Because the scientific facts are clear, the permissibility of taking human life hinges on a moral question. Do all human beings merit full moral respect and protection, ...or only some?”

Vaccine Update

Children of God for Life (COG) reported in late October that a morally produced shingles vaccine has received FDA approval for licensing in the US. Shingrix, made by Glaxo SmithKline (GSK) is produced using Chinese hamster cells. Merck's Zostavax uses aborted fetal cells. In September, the FDA unanimously endorsed Shingrix as a product of choice. COG stated that not only is Shingrix morally produced, "but it is also a far superior product as evidenced by lengthy clinical trials. [Shingrix] maintained 90% efficacy in those 70 years old and above with 95% immunity maintained after 4 years...Merck's Zostavax is only 38% effective in people over 70 and only 40% duration of immunity after 4 years. Shingrix combines a protein from the chickenpox virus... [with a] unique component made from the bark of the Quillaja saponaria (soap bark) evergreen tree... COG is hoping that with the advancement of Shingrix, GSK could also produce a moral version of the chickenpox vaccine. Merck's Zostavax is simply a stronger version of its chickenpox vaccine, so it seems possible that GSK could weaken Shingrix for a chickenpox vaccine." Debi Vinnedge, Executive Director at Children of God for Life said, "This is a problem we have dealt with for years and we cannot thank GSK enough for doing it right. There is absolutely no reason to use the remains of aborted babies to produce vaccines." Scientists at Sound Choice Pharmaceutical Institute have been fighting for years for a superior vaccine product that is ethically produced. They focus on "the potential harms of human fetal cell contaminants in vaccines made from human fetal cell lines." Dr. Theresa A. Deisher of Sound Choice stated, "As scientists working towards ending human exploitation in biomedical research, we are thrilled about the approval of Shingrix vaccine in the US." She urged consumers to continue to demand that pharmaceutical companies provide alternatives for unsafe health products. To download an updated vaccine chart listing vaccines produced with aborted fetal cell line products and ethical alternatives, go to cogforlife.org and select "Vaccines" in the menu. You can also see an updated chart of products made using aborted fetal products at the COG website by selecting "Fetal & Stem Cell" in the menu. For more information on Sound Choice, go to SoundChoice.org.

March For Life 2018

Participants - Provide Your Own Press Coverage: Tired of just complaining about no March For Life coverage in the major local newspapers? Bring March For Life coverage to your home town through your local weekly newspaper. Weeklies like to cover what local residents are doing - just a picture and a short caption is all it takes.

Suggestion: Take a photo of your pro-life group against the MFL crowd. Write a brief caption, such as: Pictured are members of ABC parish/youth group at the March For Life in Washington D.C. on January 19, 2018. These pro-life advocates joined hundreds of thousands at this event calling for an end to abortion and return to respect for the life of unborn babies. Mail or e-mail your photo/caption to a local paper (e.g. LI Herald or Anton Community Newspapers). Bring pro-life news to your neighbors!

Youth Attending March for Life - Feedback Wanted! If you are 10-16 years old and attend the 2018 March for Life in D.C., the LI Coalition for Life wants to hear about your experience. Please tell us in about 25 words what you thought of the March for Life. We hope to publish some of your feedback in Life News. Please e-mail or mail your feedback to us at: info@prolifeLI.org or LICL, PO Box 247, Old Bethpage NY 11804 - to be received no later than 2/4/18. Include your Name, Age, Town, and who you went to the MFL with (e.g. school, parish, family). Thank you for attending the MFL and sharing your thoughts with us.
